Property Description

Possibilities abound with this 140-acre farm in Costa Rica. Featuring a direct distance from the Pacific Ocean of only 1 kilometer, this property would be ideal as a prospective vacation destination. The top plateau of the property, spanning approximately 4-5 hectares, boasts fantastic ocean views, while another 4-5 hectares is comprised of primeval forest and features indications of pre-Columbian cultures, including evidence of early settlements, including pottery shards, stones, and graves. An additional twenty or so plateaus scattered throughout the property are embedded within the natural environment. Power is already provided to the property and water can be accessed through the natural springs located on the property or by drilling wells. Solid infrastructure located in the nearby area makes this property the ideal blend of tranquility and convenience. Platanillo, home to a hospital, restaurants, and food stores, is located only 10 minutes away.
